The supreme executive power of the State of California is vested in the Governor, whose duty it is to see that the law is faithfully executed.

The Governor is Commander in Chief of the militia of this state. He is the sole official organ of communication between the government of this state and the federal government and the other states of the United States. He must supervise the official conduct of all executive and ministerial officers, and he must see that all offices are filled and their duties performed.

The Governor's appointment power extends over the significant areas of state government. First, the Governor has authority to fill vacancies in the judiciary (municipal, superior, appeals and Supreme courts) and to fill newly created judgeships. Second, the Governor has the power to appoint a large number of positions throughout the executive department, subject to confirmation by the State Senate.

The Governor must communicate with the Legislature, during each calendar year, regarding the condition of the state and may make recommendations. The Governor must also submit an itemized budget to the Legislature within the first 10 days of each year.

The Governor may veto any bill passed by the Legislature and return it with his objections to the house of origin. He may also reduce or eliminate one or more items of appropriation while approving other portions of a bill.

In addition to his immediate staff, the Governor utilizes a cabinet, composed of the secretaries of the ten major state agencies (State and Consumer Services; Business, Transportation and Housing; Environmental Protection; Child Development and Education; Food and Agriculture; Health and Welfare; Resources Trade and Commerce; Veterans Affairs; and the Youth and Adult Correctional Agency), plus the Director of Finance, the Director of Industrial Relations, and the Director of Information Technology.

This conglomerate serves as the Governor's chief policy advisory body, and in their individual capacities each implements and coordinates the Governor's policies throughout the state.

The cabinet supplies the Governor with a comprehensive view and current resume of the state operations and serves as a source for long-range planning.

The Lieutenant Governor also serves on, and rotates with the State Controller, as chair of the three-member State Lands Commission, which oversees control and leasing of millions of acres of state-owned land, including offshore oil resources, as well as use and permitting for all navigable waterways in California.
